THE new fast service on the Canadian Pacific railway will be inaugurated about the middle of June, probably the 18th or 19th. The flyer across the continent will be called the "Imperial Limited," and will run between Montreal and Vancouver to about one hundred hours. There will also be a daily transcontinental service instituted, owing to the increasing volume of travel, and trains will leave on Sundays as well as on week days, this being absolutely necessitated to relieve the present heavy traffic on Monday's trains with travellers from Europe.

ROBERT STANLEY DUNN, a Harvard student who went through Edmonton last June going north on a hunting trip, with a companion J. B. Swan, has returned to New York, going out by steamer. Mr. Swan returned by Edmonton. Of his trip Mr. Dunn writes: "I had a fine trip through your country, coming out by Fort Graham. Stuart lake and Ashcroft, last November. I am now writing an article on the trip for a magazine. I have the most favorable impression of your country and of the Edmonton trail. I finally caught up with the Graham party in February, people who had left Edmonton in February, and had been in the country for some time. One of the most impressive events was the arrival of Mr. Moodie's Sicilian guide, after he had been a month out in the absolutely unknown wilderness country between the Finlay and Dease lake. He gave an interesting account of Mr. Moodie being nearly caught by fire, and of finding dead whitemen along the trail.

SMASH UP ON THE C. & E.

At White Mud Creek, ten miles south of Strathcona, Monday's north bound train was wrecked and eight cars smashed and broken. Some lie upside down on the embankment, some smashed to pieces, and two side by side in the bed of White Mud Creek, having carried the bridge away as they fell. For two hundred yards the rails were torn up, and the ties broken. It was by long odds the worst smashup that ever occurred on the C. & E.; and the wonder of it is that there were not numerous fatalities to report. The providential escape of the passengers is due to the fact that the cars next after the engine were freight instead of passenger coaches, and on them fell the brunt of the damage, with the result that they were crushed like eggshells and their broken contents thrown out on the prairie.

The exact cause of the accident is not known, but the most reasonable theory advanced is that it was caused by the rails spreading. The engine, tender and two cars had safely crossed the creek when the engineer noticed that some of the cars had jumped the track. He reversed the engine and what followed can only be surmised from the appearance of the wreck. The engine, with its tender and the two freight cars got safely away. The next car, the first of the wrecked ones, which was loaded with mixed freight for the Massey Harris Co., lies on its side west of the track, clear of the rails. It was unbroken. The second car loaded with mixed groceries lay upside down on the opposite side of the track about thirty feet behind the first one, and five feet from the rails. It did not appear to be greatly damaged. The third had been loaded with binders, mowers, rakes and plows for the Massey-Harris Co. and had pitched headlong from the track on the east side, and it, with its cargo, is a total loss. It lies on its side and top with the entire top torn out and the machinery valued at $2,000 thrown out bent, twisted and broken. The next car had been loaded with way freight and lies smashed to pieces on the east side of the track, just across the bridge, one end buried in the bank of the creek, a total wreck. The fifth car also a freight is halfway across the track, its front end telescoping and taking the side out of the car ahead. In the bed of the creek, side by side, at right angles to the track, lie the baggage car and the coach in which were the five families of unfortunate Galicians. The baggage car was ahead and was not very badly crushed. It appears to be supported by the remnants of the bridge which it carried down when it fell, and lies dry above the waters of the shallow creek. The Galician coach did not escape so easily. It fell in the centre of the creek with force enough to break the end out and the water came in and flooded one end. Only a few seats were unbroken in the entire car and in its drop it was impaled on a 12x12 bridge timber which crushed through the floor, tore out two sections of seats, and pinned part of them to the ceiling. There were 25 souls in this coach and that none were killed is simply miraculous. These two cars blocked the track so that the next and eighth, a passenger coach, crashed into them and partly derailed itself, fortunately without doing much damage or injuring those on board. The last and ninth car, another passenger coach, was partly derailed, but quickly replaced by the wrecking gang on their arrival.

The injured are: Conductor Geo. Clarke, arm and shoulder crushed, not dangerously. Mail clerk, John Kenney, broken knee cap. This is the most painful injury of any. The injured man is in the hospital here. Elmer Bruce, baggage man, bruised. Galician man, scalp and head wound, not dangerous. Galician woman, bruised, not very serious.

Several Galician children were almost drowned in the water which came in the end of the car. They are all at the immigration hall Strathcona. A collection on behalf of the Galicians was taken up by M. J. Sprenger and $20 collected and presented to them. A number of Edmonton people were on the train including W. T. Henry and son, Thos. Hourston, H. Gruney, Mrs. and Miss Lauder, and several others.

The wrecking train arrived from Calgary about noon on Tuesday and quickly commenced straightening things up. It is expected that the bridge will be rebuilt by Friday night. The train for the south pulled out about five on Tuesday, the passengers and luggage being transferred at the creek.

Large crowds from both towns visited the scene on Tuesday, and a number of photographs were taken of the wreck and the wrecking gang at work.

TETE JAUNE CACHE GOLD. The Golden Era says that reports continue favorable to the prospects of the new gold field.

Messrs. Forest and Leamy, who formed two of Archdeacon McKay's party, returned to Donald on Wednesday, having only gone as far as Wood river. They report having had a very hard trip, and as the supply of food was giving out they determined to hand over what was left for the Archdeacon, Barnes and Patmore, and return. These three have continued the trip to the Cache.

One of the party who left Beaver, Scott by name, also got into Donald yesterday, having got as far as Canoe river, where he met his partner Tolton coming out with particulars for record of five claims which he had located. Tolton was one of the first to go in over the snow from Beaver this season. Scott came on with the records, and his partner returned to the Cache. His partner considered the prospects of the new fields to be good, and Scott came into Golden yesterday to outfit and will start back on the trail to-morrow.

The latest reports from Tete Jaune Cache say it is doubtful whether claim owners will be able to work Swift Current Creek this season owing to high water. It is stated that one of the prospectors there has been despatched to the gold commissioner's office at Barkerville to get a lay over till fall for all claims.

GASSETTE NOTICES

BEAVER LAKE EAST.

The lake cleared of ice on the 24th, about two weeks later than last year. Seeding is almost finished and the area sown is large.

Mrs. Fane returned from Lethbridge early in May. Mr. Lafortune, who is in a weak state yet, has gone to the hospital. Mr. Mc-Callum has been committed for trial at the next court, and is out on bail.
This being a British country we can safely leave the case to be dealt with by the court. Mr. Rothney, the new Presbyterian missionary, is holding regular services at the usual points, and is well liked.

May 25.

WETASKIWIN.

MacDonnell & Co. have begun buying hogs. Creamery patrons are increasing largely in numbers.

The recent rain has greatly stimulated growth. Wm. Egglestone has sold his farm and some cattle to a recent arrival, Mr. Chadwick.

John Coleman, timber
ranger, was in town over Sunday.

Mr. Dixon has engaged Mr.
Price of Edmonton, to take charge of his dry goods department.

Machinery arriving by the car load.

Mr. Houston, fur buyer, came down last week from Edmonton and purchased the furs on hand.

Tom Shea is building a stable for Mr. MacDonnell.

Some recently arrived settlers are outfitting for Buffalo lake. Several cattle men are taking advantage of the government assistance and are bringing in fine bulls for their ranches.

Several tenders for the material and work on the roller mill are being sent into Mr. Fairbairn. Building is expected to begin soon.

ANGUS, RIDGE.

J. C. McKay had a serious attack of rheumatism. The Queen's Birthday passed off quietly as usual in the village. All wish Her Gracious Majesty many years to live yet.

T. S. Perrett, our new school inspector, has not visited us yet.

Several new school districts in the vicinity of Duhamel have been opened this summer. Prairie fires have not troubled us much this year.

We have delightful weather for the crops. The rain on Friday and Saturday has left the ground moist.

Charles Miller will make extensive improvements in erecting a stable, &c. this summer. Josiah Shantz visited the burg on Saturday.

Mr. Wilson intends leaving for British Columbia this week. We wish him success.

Alf. Ellis is improving his farm by erecting a substantial fence.

Mrs. Spencer has been appointed an assistant teacher in the Sabbath school. There will be a good attendance this summer.

There is some talk of erecting a grist mill at Battle river. With a railway our village would be improved rapidly. There is a large settlement around Battle lake.

VEGEBVILLE.

Our spring is late, but the weather is nice now, and crops are looking well; also the gardens. Henry Paulin has gone to work on his C. P. R. land near St. Albert for a month or six weeks.

Mr. Dennis and son have gone to Edmonton this week with two loads of hogs.

D. Mc-Kenzie came near having a fatal disaster as he was moving from Ed.
Dennis' place to his new ranch on Jerk-Tail. He was going down a hill about a hundred yards from his house when his horses became frightened and his dog which was a little ahead came back to the wagon badly hurt.

About the same time two big bears made their appearance in front of the house. Of two evils Mr. McKenzie thought he would choose the least and stay on his load, when, suddenly, the wagon turned over. How it happened and how he got off in time he does not know. Fortunately the bears being more scared than he, did not tackle him, but gave him the road. Neither he nor the horses were hurt, but the wagon was demoralized and the potatoes and other valuables were scattered all up and down the hill.

Mr.
Hoggman. Mr. Warnick and Mr.
Melsin Smith have also taken claims on Jerk-Tail creek.
